

KWAWKEWLTH AGENCY

DETAILED REPORT

KWAWKEWLTH AGENCY

Meetings with the Indians of the Kwawkewlth Agency and inspections of their principal Reserves occupied the Commission from the 28th May until the 10th June, 1914, Mr. Agent Halliday being subsequently examined on June 24th, 25th and 26th, 1914.

The Reserves of the Kwawkewlth Agency as described in the Official Schedule of 1913, number 91, with an aggregate area of 16,600.99 acres, giving a per capita acreage of 14.03 for the present Agency population of eleven hundred and eighty-three. The natural avocation of these Indians is fishing, but progressive members of certain of the Tribes of late have given earnest of desire to cultivate land, and the Commission has, therefore, endeavoured, insofar as possible, to meet their reasonable requirement of cultivable lands. The Commission has also allotted as Reserves a number of fishing stations long used and occupied by the Indians but not heretofore formally set apart for their use and benefit.

In the case of the Hope Island Reserve of the Nahwitti Tribe, a reduction of 37.86 acres has been made to meet harbourage requirements of the white population, such reduction in no way impinging upon the necessary and reasonable requirements of the Indians. Two small Reserves of the virtually extinct Klas-kino Tribe also have been cut off in their entirety, leaving one Reserve of 12.50 acres, which is ample for the Indian requirement.

Action upon additional lands applications of the Agency has resulted in the creation, subject to approval, of 29 new Reserves, of a total area of 1,902.29 acres, making the net total of Agency increase 1,761.43 acres, and giving under the reconstitution and distribution a total of 118 Reserves of an aggregate area of 18,228.06 acres, or 15.43 acres per capita for the Agency.

With respect to the Turner Island or Klawatsis Tribe and its special requirements, the Commission on the 29th February, 1916, placed itself upon record in the terms of the following resolution:

"WHEREAS the Commission by investigation on the ground and by evidence of the Indians and of the Agent of the Department of Indian Affairs having jurisdiction over them, is impressed with the fact that the land contained in the Reserve at present constituted and established for the use and benefit of the Turner Island or Klawatsis Tribe, of the Kwawkewlth Agency, is insufficient for the reasonable and necessary requirements of the said Tribe or Band;

"AND WHEREAS the present per capita acreage of the said Tribe or Band is but 0.48 acre, which per capita acreage will be increased to only 0.77 acre by the constitution of a new Reserve as a result of the allowance of the one application of the Tribe found to be for vacant and available Crown land;

"AND WHEREAS the Commission has diligently, but unsuccessfully, endeavoured to find alternative available Crown lands suitable for the requirements of these applicant Indians,

"BE IT RESOLVED: That the circumstances as above recited, with respect to the land shortage of the Indians of the Turner Island or Klawatsis Tribe, be brought to the attention of the Department of Indian Affairs, with a view to such steps being taken by the said Department as may be deemed necessary and desirable in order to provide for the reasonable and necessary land requirements of the said Turner Island or Klawatsis Tribe."
