3 masons, 13 carriage or sleigh builders, 16 grist and carding mills, 9 harness makers, 16 tanners and carriers. These several occupations would very probably afford employment to some 300 men and say 60 boys. The wages of the men would sum up weekly, at a moderate estimate, $2,500; and the boys might, at a low estimate, be expected to earn $120 per week. The total weekly earnings of the several industrial occupations enumerated would reach $2,620.

*In addition to industries which appear in the above tabulated statement, there are several small concerns, such as those of tailors, harness makers, photographers, carpenters, painters, masons, blacksmiths and the like, which employ in most cases one, and sometimes two or more hands, but do not use the modern labor-saving appliances to any extent. Probably 70 to 80 persons are thus employed which, at an average of $7 per week, would make the wages of the higher number $560 per week.

†In Summerside, besides the foregoing, there are the workshops of 4 blacksmiths, 3 bakers, 2 milliners, 5 boot and shoemakers, 2 carpenters, 2 painters, and also 2 small tanneries, in each of which some two or three hands receive employment, the average weekly wages amounting to some $250.
