Executive Summary

Phoenix Strategic Perspectives Inc. (Phoenix SPI) was commissioned by Veterans Affairs Canada (VAC) to conduct a 12-minute telephone survey of 750 clients.¹ This included: 1) clients who are registered for My VAC Account² but who have not logged in over the 24-month period preceding the research; and 2) clients who have not registered for My VAC Account. The fieldwork was conducted from August 21 through to September 6, 2020. Based on a sample of this size (n=750), the overall survey results can be considered accurate to within $\pm 3.6\%$, 19 times out of 20.

The main objective of this research was to understand the barriers faced by members who are inactive and non-registered users of My VAC Account. The Department intends to use the results from this research to improve service delivery and design, and reduce the barriers of entry for new users of My VAC Account. What follows below is a summary of the findings. The full results can be found in the section titled, Detailed Findings.

Profile of Respondents

Sixty-three percent of respondents are non-users of My VAC Account, while 37% are inactive users—that is, they are registered account holders who have not logged in to their account in the 24 months preceding the research. Non-users are most likely to be aged 60 and older (71%), female (71%), and family members who receive benefits (87%). In addition, non-users are least likely to reside in Ontario (54%) and more likely to live in one of Canada's western provinces³ (64%), Atlantic Canada (66%), or the province of Quebec (70%). Not surprisingly, non-users are more likely to not have an internet connection at home (90%). In contrast, inactive users of My VAC Account are least likely to be aged 60 and older (29%) or a family member (13%), and they are more likely to reside in Ontario (46%), to be male (39%), and to have an internet connection at home (40%).

Unaided Knowledge of Methods to Access or Apply for VAC Benefits

To test clients' knowledge of the methods available to access or apply for VAC's benefits, all respondents were asked, in an open-ended manner, to identify which methods can be used to access or apply for VAC's benefits. Exactly one in five (20%) said clients can access or apply for benefits through My VAC Account. In contrast, approximately four in 10 each mentioned that benefits can be accessed or applied for by telephone (42%) or online (42%) through some means. Following this, 20% reported that clients can apply for benefits by mail, and 12% mentioned benefits can be accessed or applied for in person at an office.

¹ 'Clients' is used to refer to those served by VAC, including Veterans, Canadian Armed Forces (CAF) members, still serving and retired RCMP members, and family members who are receiving benefits directly from VAC.

² My VAC Account is a secure, authenticated web application that allows users to access VAC services from anywhere, and at any time. My VAC Account users include war service Veterans; CAF members and Veterans; still-serving and retired RCMP members; and family members who are receiving benefits directly from VAC.

³ Includes respondents from the territories.

Few said that clients can apply or access benefits in person somewhere other than a VAC office (4%) or by email (2%).

Awareness and Knowledge of My VAC Account

Approximately one-third (34%) of clients surveyed who have not registered for My VAC Account (n=473) said they are aware of the online service channel; nearly two-thirds (64%) have not heard of My VAC Account. When non-users aware of My VAC Account were asked what they know about the online service channel, over half (58%) said they know nothing about it. The types of things respondents reported knowing about My VAC Account included that it provides access to VAC benefits and services (12%), that it provides a method to apply for benefits online (11%), that it provides access to account information or one's My VAC Account profile (9%), and that it provides an alternative to using telephone or mail to contact VAC.

Use of My VAC Account

Almost half (47%) of non-users aware of My VAC Account and inactive My VAC Account holders do not use the online service channel because they have no need to do so. Fewer attributed their lack of use to other factors, such as lack of interest (6%), the perception that online interactions are too impersonal and a preference for traditional service channels (5%), the view that registering for My VAC Account is complicated or difficult (4%), and difficulties experienced logging in to their account (4%).

Registration

The majority (55%) of inactive users registered for My VAC Account in order to apply online for VAC benefits and services. Slightly more than two-thirds (68%) said it was at least somewhat easy to register for My VAC Account, with 29% saying registration was very easy. Among inactive users who found the process of registering difficult, four in 10 (41%) explained that the process was complicated and not user-friendly.

Barriers and Facilitators to Using My VAC Account

For one-third (32%) of all respondents, security of personal information is a potential barrier that is a personally important factor in terms of reasons why they might not use My VAC Account to connect with Veterans Affairs Canada. Following security, 27% pointed to lack of interest, 23% to lack of comfort with online services, and 23% to lack of understanding of the benefits of My VAC Account as important factors in terms of reasons why they might not use the online service. Fewer than two in 10 respondents considered internet access (19%) or having a computer (18%) as important factors.

When asked to attribute importance to a list of potential benefits of using My VAC Account, respondents were most likely to identify email notifications. Six in 10 (62%) considered email notifications of application status changes to be an important potential benefit of My VAC Account, including 50% who said it is a very important factor. This is closely followed by the ability to check the status of an application anytime and the ability to update profile and direct deposit information: 59% said these are important benefits. At least five in 10 rated uploading documents rather than sending them by mail (55%), receiving documents online rather than waiting for them to arrive by mail (53%), and having a record of a conversation with VAC (52%) as personally important potential benefits of My VAC Account.

Future Use of My VAC Account

Slightly more than half (56%) of survey respondents are likely to register for My VAC Account or start using the online service channel again, including nearly one-quarter (23%) who are very likely to do so. Among respondents unlikely to register for, or start using their My VAC Account again, approximately four in 10 (39%) said it is because they have no need.

Conclusions

The research findings do not point to any one barrier that is limiting use of the online service channel; instead, the research indicates that clients' use of My VAC Account is largely need-based. Lack of need, in fact, is the main reason reported by inactive and non-users for not using, or registering for, My VAC Account, and it was the only reason offered with any frequency by those unlikely to register for, or start using again, the service in the future. Indeed, majorities of inactive and non-users indicated that none of the potential barriers explored in the survey were important factors in terms of reasons why they might not use My VAC Account. And, when asked what would encourage them to use My Account, need topped the list.

In addition to lack of need, there is a general lack of awareness of My VAC Account and the features it offers. For instance, when asked what methods can be used to access or apply for VAC's benefits, few respondents noted that this can be done through My VAC Account. Moreover, many who do not use My VAC said they had never heard of the online service prior to this study. Not surprisingly, then, when asked what would motivate them to use My Account, increased awareness and understanding of the benefits followed closely behind need on the list of motivators.

Looking ahead, the results from the survey offer some direction for the Department when it comes to targeted communications about My VAC Account to motivate or encourage clients to register for, or start using, the online service. Specifically, the Department will want to consider ways to increase overall awareness of My VAC Account, including the benefits of using the online service to interact with VAC. This could include highlighting specific features of My VAC Account that non-users and inactive users attributed the most importance to, including email notifications, the ability to check one's application status anytime, and the ability to update profile and direct deposit information. While non-users and inactive users do not appear to see My VAC Account as offering any service or features they need as part of their ongoing relationship with the Department, many expressed a desire to learn more about the service channel and what it offers account holders. Increased promotion of My VAC Account and selected features, therefore, could help to encourage use of the online service channel.

The contract value was $48,988.34 (including HST).

Introduction

Background and Objectives

My VAC Account is a secure, authenticated web application that allows users to access VAC services from anywhere, and at any time. My VAC Account users include: Veterans, Canadian Armed Forces members (CAF), still serving and retired RCMP members, and family members who are receiving benefits directly from VAC. Through My VAC Account, clients⁴ can use the Benefits Navigator to learn more about VAC benefits and services relevant to them, apply online for VAC benefits and services, upload documents to support applications, track the status of applications, receive online correspondence from VAC, view a summary of their VAC benefits, sign up for direct deposit or change banking information, update contact information, and connect with VAC through secure messaging. My VAC Account is continually enhanced as the department moves towards having a complete suite of services available online.

As more services move to this online platform, VAC wanted to collect feedback from Veterans and others served by the Department who are not using My VAC Account. This includes those who are not registered for My VAC Account, and those who are registered, but have not logged in to use My VAC Account in the last two years. Veterans Affairs Canada needs to understand why these clients do not use My VAC Account to access services, including the barriers faced when trying to register for an account.

The objectives of this research were as follows: understand the barriers faced by members who are inactive and non-registered users of My VAC Account; gather information in support of improvements implemented to My VAC Account in 2019; gather information that can be used to evaluate VAC's performance indicators; and gain insight on functionality, preferences, and satisfaction with VAC's online services. The Department intends to use the results from this research to improve service delivery and design, and reduce the barriers of entry for new users of My VAC Account.

Methodology

A 12-minute telephone survey was conducted from August 21 through to September 6, 2020 with a sample of 750 VAC clients. The target audience was: 1) clients who are registered for My VAC Account but who have not logged in over the 24-month period preceding the research; and 2) clients who have not registered for My VAC Account. Fieldwork was carried out by Elemental Data Collection Inc. (EDCI), under subcontract to Phoenix SPI. The sample frame for this survey was randomly drawn from the Department's Client Service Delivery Network (CSDN). Based on a sample of this size (n=750), the overall survey results will be considered accurate to within $\pm 3.6\%$, 19 times out of 20 (95% confidence interval). Additional methodological information is available in the Appendix.

⁴ 'Clients' is used to refer to those served by VAC, including Veterans, CAF members, still serving and retired RCMP members, and family members who are receiving benefits directly from VAC.

Notes to Readers

- For editorial purposes, the terms “VAC clients” and “respondents” are used interchangeably to denote survey participants.
- All results in the report are expressed as percentages, unless otherwise noted. Percentages may not always add to 100% due to rounding or multiple response questions.
- In graphs, “DK” stands for “Don’t know” and “NR” for “No response.”
- The number of respondents changes throughout the report because selected questions were asked of sub-samples of survey respondents. Readers should be aware of this and exercise caution when interpreting results based on smaller numbers of respondents
- Subgroup differences are identified in the report.
 - When reporting subgroup variations, only differences that are significant at the 95% confidence level and that pertain to a subgroup sample size of more than n=30 are discussed in the report.
 - If one or more categories in a subgroup are not mentioned in a discussion of subgroup differences (for example, if one out of three age segments are compared), it can be assumed that significant differences were found only among the categories reported.
- The tabulated data is available under separate cover and the research instruments can be found in the Appendix.

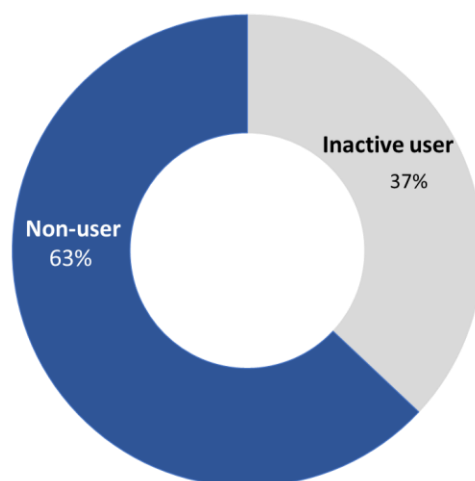

Detailed Findings

Profile of Respondents

Survey sample contains more non-users than inactive users

Sixty-three percent of respondents are non-users of My VAC Account, while 37% are inactive users—that is, they are registered account holders who have not logged in to their account in the 24 months preceding the research.

Base: All respondents (n=750).

Non-users are most likely to be aged 60 and older (71%), female (71%), and family members who receive benefits (87%). In addition, non-users are least likely to reside in Ontario (54%) and more likely to live in one of Canada’s western provinces⁵ (64%), Atlantic Canada (66%), or the province of Quebec (70%). Not surprisingly, non-users are more likely to not have an internet connection at home (90%).

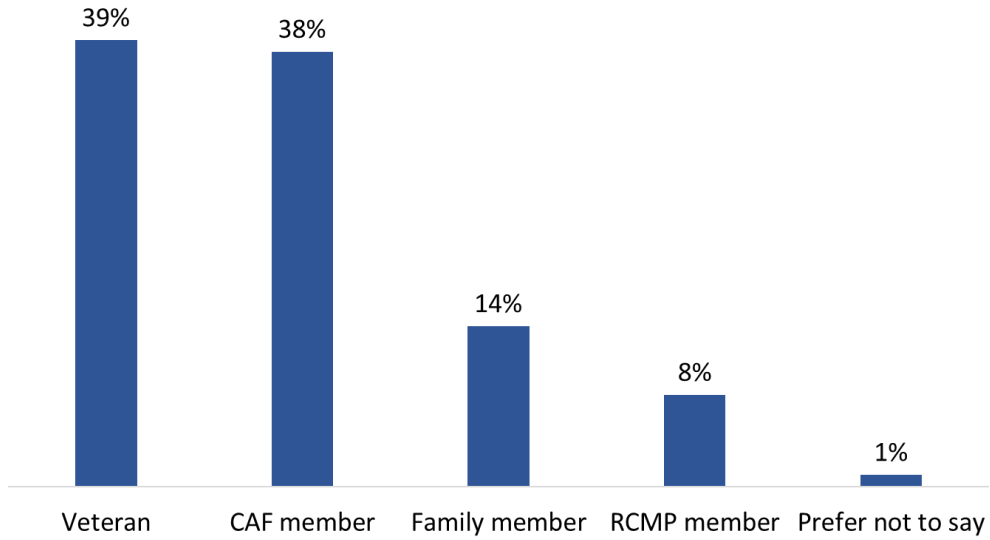

In contrast, inactive users of My VAC Account are least likely to be aged 60 and older (29%) or a family member (13%), and they are more likely to reside in Ontario (46%), to be male (39%), and to have an internet connection at home (40%).

More than three-quarters of respondents are either a Veteran or a CAF member

Thirty-nine percent (39%) of respondents are Veterans, while 38% are retired or still-serving members of the Canadian Armed Forces (CAF). Following this, 14% of respondents are family members who receive benefits from VAC, while 8% are members of the RCMP.

⁵ Includes respondents from the territories.

Three quarters of clients are male

Slightly more than three-quarters (77%) of respondents are male, while 23% are female.

Q28. Gender. Base: All respondents (n=750).

More than half of respondents are located in Ontario or Quebec

Twenty-nine percent (29%) of VAC clients surveyed are located in Ontario, while a similar proportion (28%) are located in Quebec. This is followed by the west at 23%, which includes British Columbia (12%), Alberta (6%), Saskatchewan (3%), Manitoba (2%), and the territories, and then Atlantic Canada at 18%, which includes Newfoundland and Labrador (2%), Prince Edward Island (2%), Nova Scotia (9%), and New Brunswick (5%).

Q23. In which province or territory do you live? Base: All respondents (n=750). [Refused: 2%].

A majority of clients with internet access at home have high speed

Eighty-nine percent (89%) of respondents noted having an internet connection at home. Among these respondents, the vast majority (91%) have high speed internet; 3% reported having a dial-up internet connection.

Q27. What type of internet connection do you have at home? Base: Respondents who have internet access at home (n=667). [DK/NR: 6%].

The following groups were more likely to report having a high-speed internet connection at home:

- Inactive My VAC Account users (97%) compared to non-users (87%);
- those in Ontario (95%), the west (94%), and Atlantic Canada (93%) versus Quebec (83%);
- clients who are 40 to 59 (97%) compared to those aged 60 and over (88%); and
- CAF members (94%) as opposed to family members receiving VAC benefits (83%).

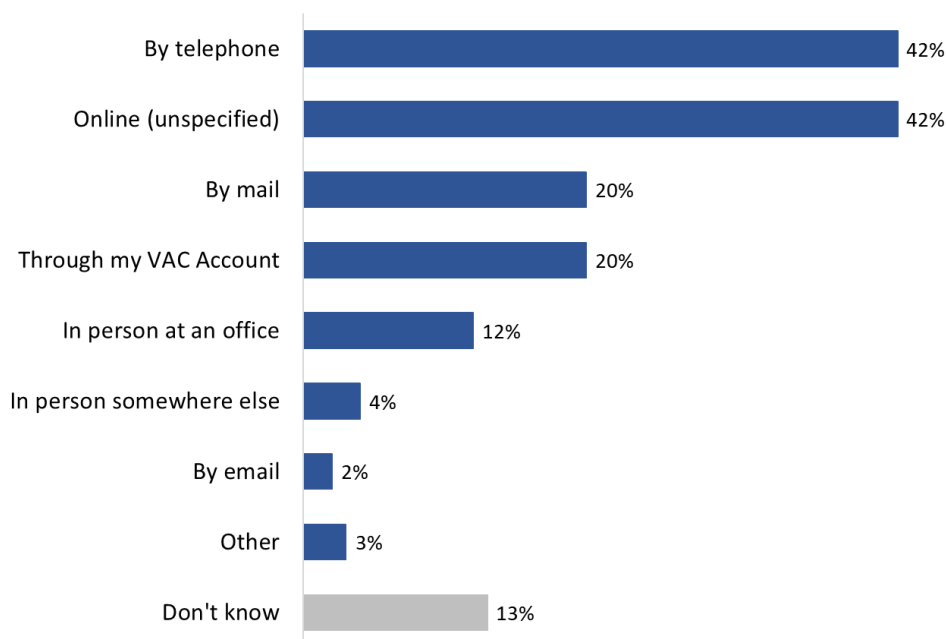

Unaided Knowledge of Methods to Access or Apply for VAC Benefits

To test clients' knowledge of the methods available to access or apply for VAC's benefits, all respondents were asked, in an open-ended manner, to identify which methods can be used to access or apply for VAC's benefits. The results are presented below.

One in five aware of My VAC Account as a method of access/apply for benefits

Exactly one in five (20%) said clients can access or apply for benefits through My VAC Account. In contrast, approximately four in 10 each mentioned that benefits can be accessed or applied for by telephone (42%) or online (42%) through some means. Following this, 20% reported that clients can apply for benefits by mail, and 12% mentioned benefits can be accessed or applied for in person at an office. Few said that clients can apply or access benefits in person somewhere other than a VAC office (4%) or by email (2%).

Figure 8: Unaided Knowledge of Methods to Access/Apply for Benefits

Q1A. To the best of your knowledge, what methods can you use to access or apply for VAC's benefits? [Multiple responses accepted].
Base: All respondents (n=750).

Inactive My VAC Account users (56%) were significantly more likely than non-users (33%) to report that VAC clients can access or apply for benefits online.⁶ In contrast, non-users (17%) were more likely than inactive users (6%) to say they did not know what methods can be used to access or apply for benefits.

⁶ In addition, more inactive users than non-users mentioned My VAC Account, but the number of respondents is too small to report this result.

Age-related differences were also noteworthy. Those aged 60 and over (45%) were more likely than 18 to 39 year olds (33%) to mention telephone as a method to access or apply for benefits. They were also the most likely to mention mail (24% versus 12% of clients aged 18 to 59). Conversely, clients aged 60 and older were least likely to say that benefits can be accessed or applied for in person at an office (9% versus 17% of younger clients) or online (32% versus 53% of 18 to 39 year olds and 60% of 40 to 59 year olds).

Awareness and Knowledge of My VAC Account

This section reports on respondents' awareness and knowledge of My VAC Account. These questions were asked of all non-users, non-users aware of My VAC Account, and inactive users of My VAC Account.

One-third of clients who do not use My VAC Account had heard of the online service channel

Approximately one-third (34%) of clients surveyed who have not registered for My VAC Account (n=473) said they are aware of the online service channel; nearly two-thirds (64%) have not heard of My VAC Account.

Figure 9: Awareness of My VAC Account

Q1. Before we contacted you for this survey, had you heard of My VAC Account? Base: Non-users only (n=473).

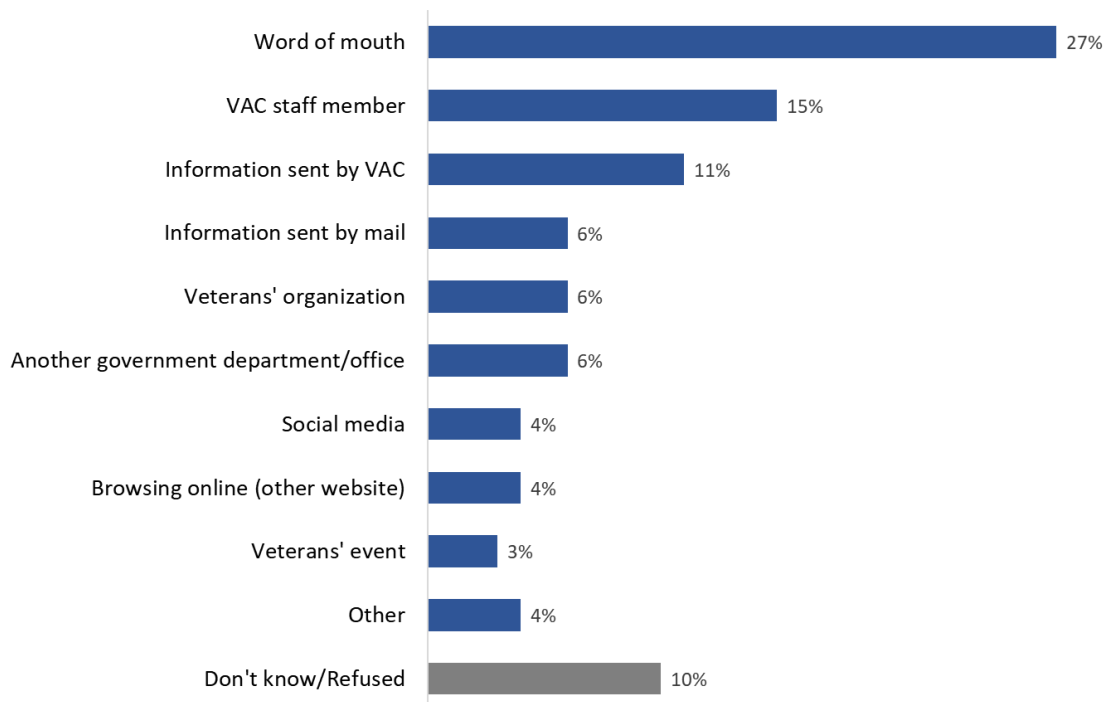

The likelihood of having heard of My VAC Account was higher among VAC clients with an internet connection at home (37% versus 17%), and male clients compared to female clients (36% versus 26%). Family members receiving VAC benefits (77%) were the most likely to say they are not aware of My VAC Account (versus 53% of RCMP members, 60% of CAF members and 63% of Veterans).

Source of awareness of My VAC Account is varied

Inactive users of My VAC Account and non-users aware of the online service channel (n=436) were asked how they first heard about My VAC Account. The source identified with the greatest frequency was word of mouth, such as from a friend or colleague (27%). Following this, smaller proportions first heard of My VAC Account through a VAC staff member (15%) or through information sent to them by VAC (11%). Other sources of awareness were mentioned by fewer than one in 10 respondents, and are depicted in figure 10.

Q6. How did you first hear about My VAC Account? Base: Respondents who were aware of My VAC account (n=436).

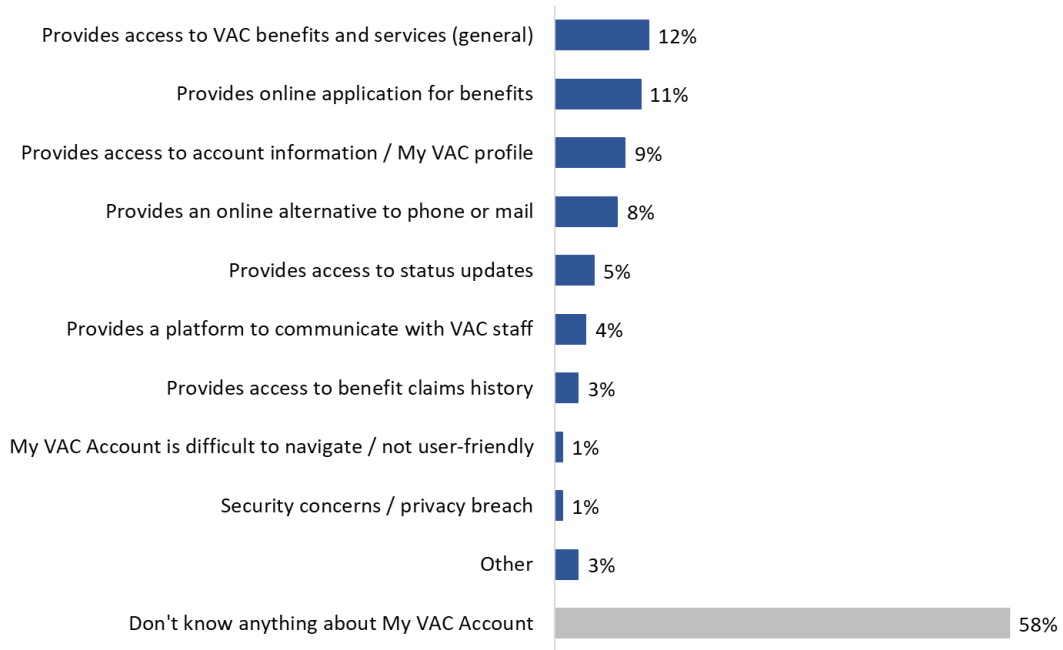

Regardless of demographics, respondents were similarly likely to have first heard of My VAC Account via word of mouth. The likelihood of having been informed about My VAC Account by a VAC staff member was higher among respondents 18 to 59 years of age (20%) compared to those aged 60 and older (11%).

Non-users aware of My VAC Account have limited knowledge of what the online service offers

When non-users aware of My VAC Account (n=159) were asked what they know about the online service channel, over half (58%) said they know nothing about it. The types of things respondents reported knowing about My VAC Account included that it provides access to VAC benefits and services (12%), that it provides a method to apply for benefits online (11%), that it provides access to account information or one's My VAC Account profile (9%), and that it provides an alternative to using telephone or mail to contact VAC.

A variety of other things were mentioned by smaller proportions, and are detailed in the Figure 11.

Q7. What, if anything, do you know about My VAC Account? Base: Non-users aware of My VAC Account (n=159).⁷

⁷ There are no subgroup differences to report due to low base numbers.

Use of My VAC Account

This section of the report provides information about use of My VAC Account. These questions were asked of inactive users and non-users aware of My VAC Account.

One-third have used My VAC Account in the past 2 years

Slightly more than one-third (35%) of inactive users said they have used My VAC Account in the past two years.⁸ Among the rest, 25% last used My VAC Account between two and three years ago, 17% between three and four years ago, and 15% more than four years ago. Two percent thought they had never used My VAC Account despite having registered to use the online service channel.

Figure 12: Time Since Last Use of My VAC Account

Q2. Approximately how long has it been since you last used My VAC Account? Base: Inactive users only (n=277). [NR: 1%].

The likelihood of having logged into My VAC Account in the past two years was higher among clients aged 40 to 59 (45%) compared to those aged 60 and over (27%).⁹

Many do not use My VAC Account because of a lack of need

Almost half (47%) of non-users aware of My VAC Account and inactive My VAC Account holders (n=436) said they do not use the online service channel because they have no need to do so. Fewer attributed their lack of use to other factors, such as lack of interest (6%), ⁸ Per the sample design, inactive users of My VAC Account were defined as registered users who have not logged in over the 24-month period preceding the research. All individuals in the sample frame of inactive users met this criterion. The difference in actual and reported use of My VAC Account most likely can be attributed to respondent recall, which can be imperfect.

⁹ There are no other subgroup differences than can be reported due to low base numbers.

the perception that online interactions are too impersonal and a preference for traditional service channels (5%), the view that registering for My VAC Account is complicated or difficult (4%), and difficulties experienced logging in to their account (4%). Other reasons for not registering for My VAC Account or using the online service channel were mentioned by small numbers of survey respondents and depicted in Figure 13.

Eleven percent (11%) said there is no specific reason why they do not use My VAC Account.

Figure 13: Reason for Not Registering / Using My VAC Account

Q8. What is the main reason you [haven't registered to use My VAC Account/have not used My VAC Account recently]? Base: Inactive users or non-users aware of My VAC Account (n=436) [UP TO TWO RESPONSES ACCEPTED]. [DK/NR: 5%].

The likelihood of reporting lack of need as the main reason for not registering for or not using My VAC Account was higher among the following groups:

- inactive users (55%) compared to non-users (35%);
- 18 to 39 year olds (64%) compared to those aged 60 and over (43%);
- men (50%) compared to women (38%); and
- those with an internet connection at home (49%) compared those without one (25%).

More than half of non-users are interested in learning more about My VAC Account

More than half (55%) of non-users are somewhat (31%) or very (24%) interested in learning more about My VAC Account. In contrast, 16% are not very interested and slightly more than one-quarter (27%) are not at all interested in learning more about My VAC Account.

Figure 14: Interest in Learning More about My VAC Account

Q9. How interested are you in learning more about this online service channel? Base: Non-users only (n=473). [DK/NR: 3%].

The following were more likely to report an interest in learning more about My VAC Account:

- respondents aged 30 to 59 (71%) compared to those aged 60 and over (49%);
- men (59%) as opposed to women (42%);
- those with an internet connection at home (59%) versus those without one (29%); and
- CAF members (62%) and Veterans (56%) compared to family members receiving benefits from VAC (38%).

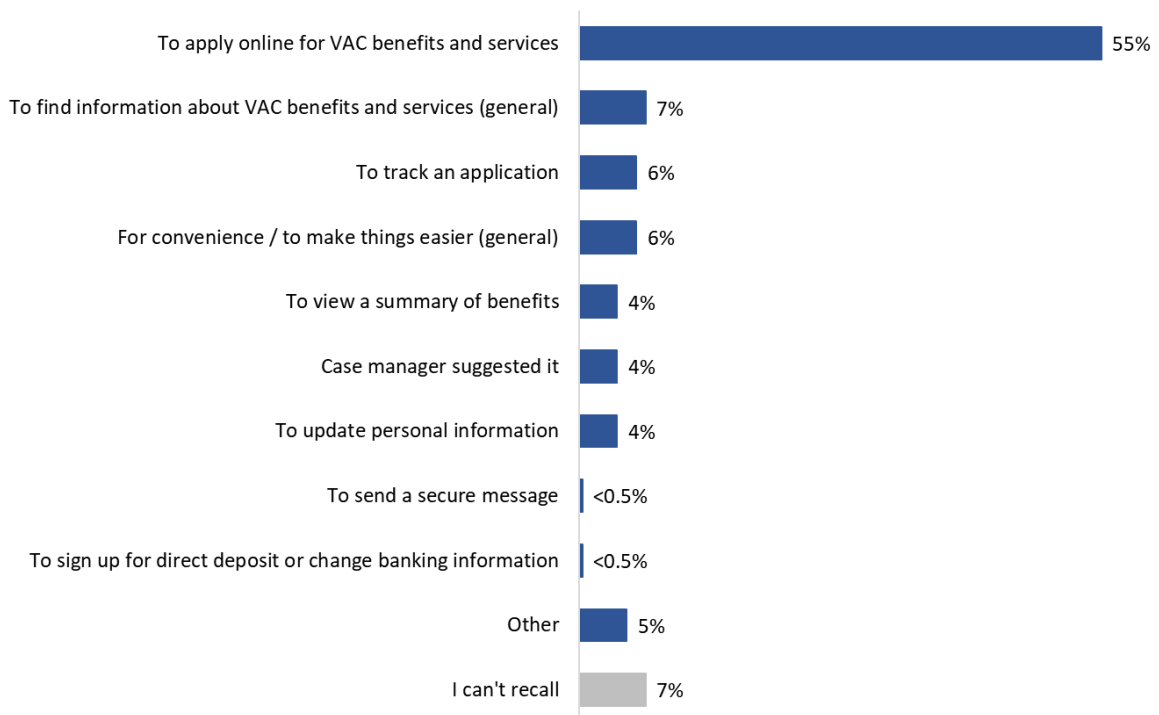

Registration

This section provides feedback from inactive users of My VAC Account about their experience registering for the online service.

More than half registered for My VAC Account in order to apply for VAC benefits online

Slightly more than half (55%) of inactive users surveyed said they registered for My VAC Account in order to apply online for VAC benefits and services. All other reasons were mentioned by fewer than one in 10 respondents and are presented in Figure 15.

Figure 15: Reason for Registering for My VAC Account

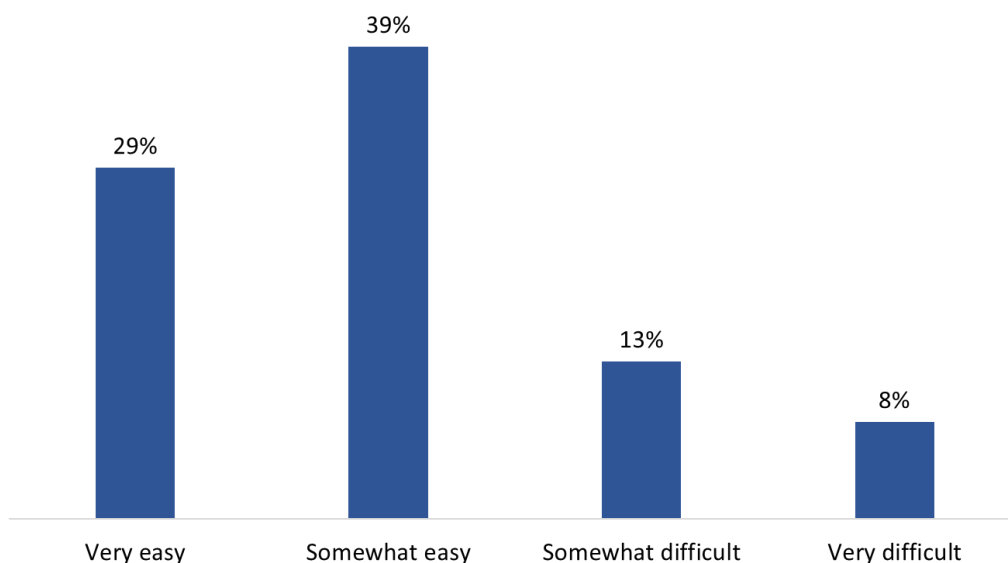

Q3. What was the reason you registered for My VAC Account? Base: Inactive users only (n=277). [NR: 2%].

Two-thirds (66%) of 18 to 39 year olds said they first registered for My VAC Account to apply for VAC benefits and services online compared to approximately half (53%) of inactive users aged 40 and older. Additionally, more than half (58%) of male respondents reported registering for My VAC Account in order to apply for benefits and services online as compared to 40% of women who did the same.

Two-thirds found it easy to register for My VAC Account

Slightly more than two-thirds (68%) of the inactive users surveyed said it was at least somewhat easy to register for My VAC Account, with 29% saying registration was very easy. One in five felt the registration process was somewhat (13%) or very (8%) difficult.

Figure 16: Ease of Registering for My VAC Account

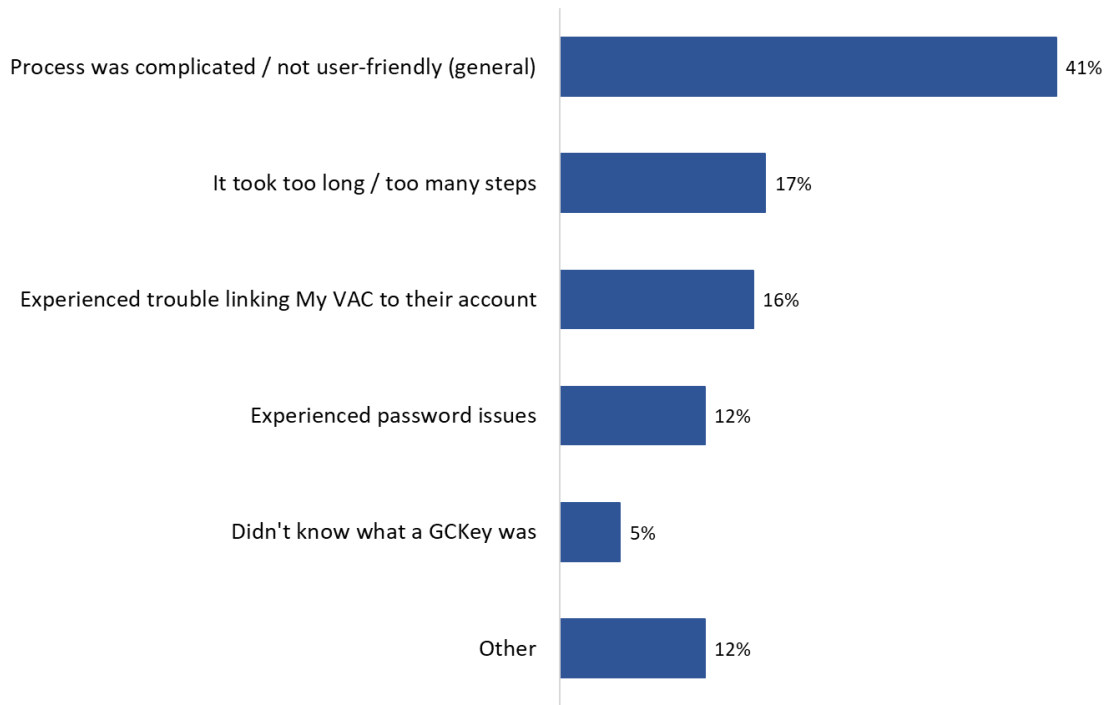

Q4. Did you find registering for My VAC Account very easy, somewhat easy, somewhat difficult or very difficult? Base: Inactive users only (n=277). [DK/NR: 10%].

Regional differences were noteworthy: inactive My VAC Account users from Atlantic Canada were least likely to have found the registration process easy. Specifically, inactive users from Quebec (79%) and western Canada (74%) were more likely to report that the registration process was somewhat or very easy compared to those in Atlantic Canada (56%).

Many report the registration process was complicated and not user-friendly

Among inactive users who found the process of registering for My VAC Account difficult (n=58), four in 10 (41%) explained that the process was complicated and not user-friendly. Seventeen percent (17%) said it took too long or involved too many steps, 16% reported experiencing problems linking My VAC Account to their account, and 12% experienced issues involving passwords. Five percent (5%) found the process difficult because they did not know what a GCKey was.

Barriers and Facilitators to Using My VAC Account

This section presents feedback on potential barriers and facilitators to use of My VAC Account. These questions were asked of all respondents and, at this point in the interview, respondents had been read this description of My VAC Account:

My VAC Account is a secure online channel for Veterans to connect with Veterans Affairs Canada. Specifically, My VAC Account allows you to do things like...

- apply for benefits and services online
- track the status of your application(s)
- upload supporting documents
- communicate with VAC through secure messaging
- update your direct deposit and contact information

For one-third, security of personal information is a barrier to using My VAC Account

Respondents were asked to rate the importance to them personally of various reasons why people might not want to use My VAC Account to connect with Veterans Affairs Canada (using 5-point scale: 1 = not a factor at all, 5 = very important factor). Potential reasons included:

- Concerns about the security of personal information when using the internet.
- Not comfortable using online services like My VAC Account.
- Do not have a computer or access to one.
- Do not have internet access or access is unreliable.
- No interest in using online services like My VAC Account.
- Don't understand the benefits or advantages of using My VAC Account.

Half or more of survey respondents did not view any of these potential barriers as important factors in terms of reasons why they might not use My VAC Account to connect with Veterans Affairs Canada. Specifically, more than seven in 10 did not attribute importance to lack of technology: not having a computer or access to one (75%) and not having internet access or reliable access to the internet (72%). Fewer than two in 10 respondents considered these important factors to them personally: 19% attributed importance to internet access and 18% to having a computer.

For approximately six in 10 (63%) lack of comfort using online services like My VAC Account is not a barrier. However, for nearly one in four (23%) it is an important factor in terms of reasons why they might not use My VAC Account to connect with Veterans Affairs Canada. Similarly, 23% said that their lack of understanding of the benefits or advantages of using My VAC Account is an important factor that might prevent usage (51% said this is not a factor).

While majorities indicated that lack of interest in using online services like My VAC Account and concerns about the security of personal information would not be reasons preventing them from using My VAC Account, 27% and 32%, respectively, attributed importance to each. Nearly one-quarter (23%) of respondents considered security concerns to be a very important factor in terms of reasons why they might not use My VAC Account and exactly one in five (20%) felt this way about interest in such a service.

Figure 18: Importance of Various Reasons for Not using My VAC Account

Q12. There are various reasons why some people might not want to use My VAC Account to connect with Veterans Affairs Canada. I'm going to read you some of these. For each one, please tell me how relevant it is to you personally, using a 5-point scale, where '1' means not a factor at all and '5' means a very important factor. How about...? Base: All respondents (n=750). [DK/NR: range from 3% to 6%].

Notable differences between inactive and non-users include the following:

- While nearly half (47%) of inactive users stated that concerns about the security of personal information using the internet is not a factor at all, fewer non-users said the same (37%).
- Two-thirds (66%) of inactive users considered lack of comfort using online services to be not a factor at all in their use of My VAC Account. In contrast, half of non-users (50%) felt the same.
- Seventy-nine percent (79%) of inactive users reported that lack of access to a computer is not a factor at all in their use of My VAC Account compared to 68% of non-users who said the same. Non-users, instead, were more likely than inactive users to have reported that lack of access to a computer is a very important factor for them when it comes to reasons preventing them from using My VAC Account (17% versus 11%).

- Three-quarters (75%) of inactive users said that lack of a reliable internet access is not a factor at all in their use of My VAC Account, while fewer (65%) non-users indicated this is the case. Additionally, RCMP members were significantly more likely to report this is not a factor at all (84%) as compared to CAF members (71%), Veterans (66%), and family members receiving VAC benefits (60%).
- Inactive users (58%) were significantly more likely to report that a lack of interest in using online services is not a factor at all as compared to non-users (42%). Conversely, non-users (24%) were more likely than inactive users (12%) to rate this as a very important factor. The same pattern was evident when it came to not understanding the benefits or advantages: inactive users were more likely to say this is not a factor at all (50% versus 40% of non-users) and non-users were more likely to have said this is a very important factor (18% versus 12% of non-users).

Additionally, clients aged 60 and older were more likely than younger clients to rate the following as very important factors: concerns about security (29%), lack of a computer (20%), and lack of internet access (19%).

Motivation to use My VAC Account is need and awareness based Respondents were asked to consider in an open-ended manner what would encourage or motivate them to use more of or to start using My VAC Account. While a variety of things were identified, none was mentioned with much frequency. Topping the list were having a need to use My VAC Account benefits (15%), having increased awareness of My VAC Account (13%), and understanding the benefits of using My VAC Account (13%).

Additionally, many ideas related to features of My VAC Account: make it easier to register for the service (7%), make it easier to navigate, more user-friendly (5%), make available online technical support (3%), and provide a 1-800 telephone line for technical support (1%). Following this were issues of accessibility, including computer (2%) and internet (2%) access.

Two percent said that having confidence that their personal information will be safe when using My VAC Account would encourage or motivate them to start using My VAC Account or use My VAC Account again. This contrasts with the third of respondents (32%) who rated concerns about the security of personal information when using the internet as an important factor when it comes to reasons for not using My VAC Account. It suggests, moreover, that security and privacy may not be top of mind concerns for My VAC Account users, but that when presented with this as a potential barrier, it becomes more salient.

Approximately one-third offered not meaningful suggestions: 13% said nothing is needed to encourage them because they intend to use the service in the future and 22% said nothing can be done to motivate them because they have no intention of using the service.

Q13. What, if anything, would encourage or motivate you to [start using My VAC Account/use My VAC Account again]? Base: All respondents (n=750) [UP TO TWO RESPONSES ACCEPTED]. [DK/NR: 6%].

Inactive My VAC Account users (25%) were more likely than non-users (9%) to report that need (i.e., having a reason to use the online service channel) would motivate them to start using My VAC Account. Inactive users also were more likely to have said they intend to use the service in the future (17% versus 11% of non-users). In contrast, 28% of non-users have no intention of using the service in the future as compared to 12% of inactive users. Non-users also were more likely to say that increased awareness of the service might motivate them to start using My VAC Account (15% versus 10% of inactive users).

Many consider email notifications of application status changes to be a potential benefit of using My VAC Account

Respondents were asked to rate the importance or relevance to them personally of a number of potential benefits to using My VAC Account (using a 5-point scale: 1 = not a factor at all, 5 = very important factor). Benefits included:

- Applying is easier with a guided web form in My VAC Account for certain applications
- Uploading documents rather than sending by mail
- Having a record of your conversation with VAC
- Receiving documents online rather than waiting for mail
- Being able to check the status of your application anytime

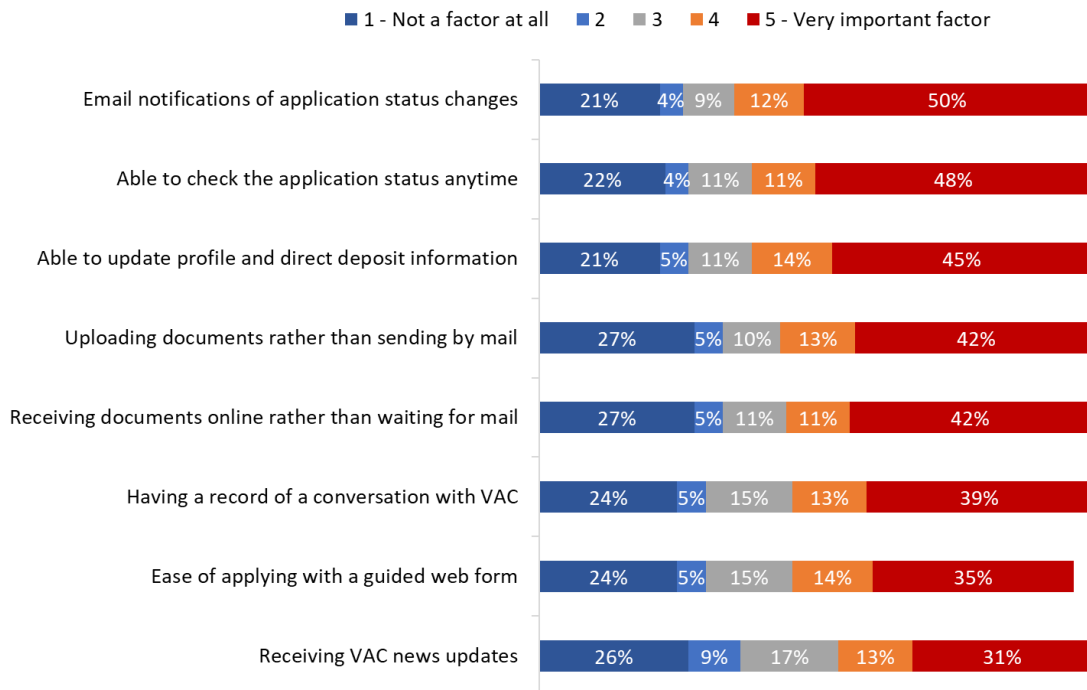

- Receiving an email notification when your application changes status
- Being able to update profile and direct deposit information
- Receiving VAC news updates

A majority of respondents attributed importance to most of these potential benefits. Six in 10 (62%) considered email notifications of application status changes to be an important potential benefit of My VAC Account, including 50% who said it is a very important factor. This is closely followed by the ability to check the status of an application anytime and the ability to update profile and direct deposit information: 59% said these are important benefits, including 48% and 45%, respectively, who said they are very important factors.

At least five in 10 rated uploading documents rather than sending them by mail (55%), receiving documents online rather than waiting for them to arrive by mail (53%), and having a record of a conversation with VAC (52%) as potential benefits of My VAC Account that are personally important to them.

Almost half (49%) considered important the potential benefit of using guided web forms for certain applications, while 44% characterized receiving VAC news updates as a benefit that would be important to them personally.

Figure 20: Importance of Various Benefits of Using My VAC Account

Q14. There are potential benefits to using My VAC Account. I'm going to read some of these to you. For each one, please tell me how relevant it is to you personally, using a 5-point scale, where '1' means not a factor at all and '5' means a very important factor. How about...? Base: All respondents (n=750). [DK/NR: ranged from 4% to 7%].

Determining My VAC Account barriers of entry for veterans

Inactive users (compared to non-users), clients between the ages of 18 and 59 (compared to clients aged 60 and older), Veterans and CAF members (compared to family members) and clients with internet access at home (compared to those without) were more likely to attribute importance to the potential benefits of using My VAC Account.

Future Use of My VAC Account

This section presents findings related to future use of My VAC Account. With one exception, these questions were asked of all respondents.

One-quarter are very likely to register for My VAC Account or start using My VAC Account again

Slightly more than half (56%) of survey respondents are likely to register for My VAC Account or start using the online service channel again, including nearly one-quarter (23%) who are very likely to do so. In contrast, one-third are unlikely (16%) or very unlikely (17%) to register for My VAC Account or start using My VAC Account again. The rest (7%) are neutral, neither likely no unlikely to register for, or start using again, My VAC Account.

Figure 21: Likelihood of Registering for / Using My VAC Account

Q10. How likely or unlikely would you be to [register for My VAC Account/start using My VAC Account again]? Base: All respondents (n=750). [DK/NR: 3%].

Two-thirds (66%) of inactive account holders said they are likely or very likely to start using My VAC Account again. In contrast, half (51%) of non-users indicated that it is likely or very likely that they will register to use My VAC Account.

In addition, the following were more likely to report that they are likely or very likely to register for My VAC Account or start using their account again:

- those aged 30 to 59 (69%) compared to clients aged 60 and over (50%);
- those located in Quebec (64%) compared to those in Atlantic Canada (46%);
- men (61%) compared to women (42%); and
- CAF members (65%) compared to Veterans (57%) and family members (30%).

Many say they have no need to register for, or use My VAC Account

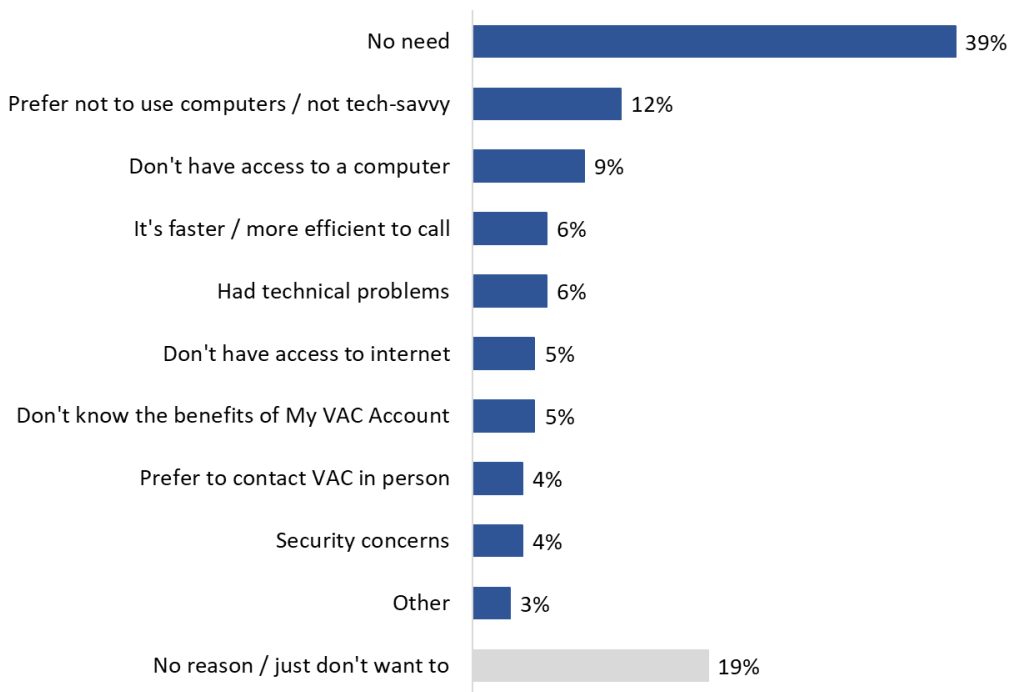

Among respondents who say they are unlikely or very unlikely to register for, or start using their My VAC Account again (n=250), approximately four in 10 (39%) said it is because they have no need.

Following this, respondents mentioned technology-related reasons, including not being tech-savvy and preferring not to use a computer (12%), not having a computer (9%) or access to the internet (5%), encountering technical problems (6%), and security concerns (4%).

Other reasons offered to explain why respondents are unlikely or very unlikely to register for, or start using, My VAC Account included the perception that it is faster and more efficient to call VAC than to use My VAC Account (6%), that they do not know the benefits of using My VAC Account (5%), and that they prefer to contact VAC in person (4%).

Nearly one in five (19%) provided no reason for not registering for, or using more, My VAC Account other than simply not wanting to do so.

Q11. Why are you not likely to [register for My VAC Account/start using My VAC Account again]? Base: Respondents who said they are unlikely to start using My VAC Account (n=250)¹¹ [UP TO TWO RESPONSES ACCEPTED]. [DK/NR: 2%].

¹¹ There are no subgroup differences to report due to low base numbers.

Half are likely to use My VAC Account to submit their next benefit application

Approximately half of survey respondents are likely (22%) or very likely (31%) to submit their next benefit application through My VAC Account.¹² In contrast, 15% are unlikely to submit their next benefit application through My VAC Account, and 24% are very unlikely to do so. The rest (6%) were indifferent, saying they are neither likely nor unlikely to submit their next benefit application through My VAC Account.

Figure 23: Likelihood of Submitting Next Benefit Application through My VAC Account

Q16. How likely or unlikely would you be to submit your next benefit application through My VAC Account? Base: All respondents (n=750). [DK/NR: 2%].

Seven in 10 (70%) inactive account holders said they are likely or very likely to submit their next benefit application through My VAC Account. In contrast, approximately four in 10 (43%) non-users surveyed indicated that it is likely or very likely that they will use My VAC Account to submit their next benefit application.

In addition, the following groups were more likely to report being likely or very likely to submit their next benefit application through My VAC Account:

- 18 to 39 (69%) and 40 to 59 (68%) year olds as opposed to those aged 60 and over (44%);
- men (56%) compared to women (42%);
- those with an internet connection at home (57%) compared to those without (19%);
- CAF members (63%) as opposed to Veterans (50%) and family members receiving VAC benefits (25%).

¹² Before being asked this question, respondents were reminded that My VAC Account can be used to submit applications for benefits and supporting documents.

Just over half are likely to use secure messaging to communicate with VAC

Just over half of survey respondents are likely (29%) or very likely (26%) to use secure messaging to communicate with VAC.¹³ In contrast, 16% are unlikely to communicate with VAC through secure messaging, and 20% are very unlikely to do so. The rest (7%) were indifferent, saying they are neither likely nor unlikely to use secure messaging.

Q18. How likely or unlikely would you be to use secure messaging to communicate with VAC? Base: All respondents (n=750). [DK/NR: 1%].

Just over two-thirds (68%) of inactive account holders said they are likely or very likely to use secure messaging to communicate with VAC. In contrast, fewer than half (47%) the non-users surveyed indicated that it is likely or very likely that they will use secure messaging.

In addition, the following groups were more likely to report being likely or very likely to use secure messaging to communicate with VAC:

- 40 to 59 year olds (65%) compared to those aged 60 and over (50%);
- men (58%) compared to women (42%);
- those with an internet connection at home (59%) versus those without one (18%); and
- RCMP (71%) compared to Veterans (55%) and family members (31%).

¹³ Before being asked this question, respondents were reminded that My VAC Account can be used to communicate with VAC through secure messaging.

Appendix

Methodological Information

The following specifications applied to this survey:

- A 12-minute telephone survey was administered to 750 clients of VAC. This include clients who are registered for My VAC Account but who have not logged in over the 24-month period preceding the research, and clients who have not registered to use My VAC Account.
 - The sample frame for this survey was randomly drawn from the Department's Client Service Delivery Network (CSDN). Two CSDN queries were run to generate two pools of eligible individuals. The resulting extracts included only the first name and telephone number of potential respondents. The extracts were segmented as follows:
 - Current clients who had not registered to use My VAC Account; and
 - My VAC Account users who had not logged in for the past 24 months.
- Probability sampling was used; as such, the results can be extrapolated to the full population of VAC clients who are lapsed or infrequent users of My VAC Account and non-users of My VAC Account.
- Interviewing was conducted by Elemental Data Collection Inc. (EDCI) using Computer Aided Telephone Interviewing (CATI) technology.
- Following survey best practices, the questionnaire was pre-tested in advance of the fieldwork to ensure that it measured what it was intended to measure.
 - Respondents had the choice of participating in the official language of their choice.
 - There were 10 completions in each official language.
 - Overall, the questionnaire worked well. There were no significant problems in terms of design or respondents' comprehension of the questions.
- All survey participants were informed that their participation is voluntary, and that information collected is protected under the authority of the Privacy Act.
- Calling was conducted at different times of the day and the week to maximize the opportunity to establish contact.
- A minimum of eight call-backs were attempted to reach potential respondents before a sample record was retired.
- The sample of 750 VAC clients can be considered accurate to within $\pm 3.6\%$, 19 times out of 20.

- The fieldwork took place between August 21 and September 6, 2020.
- The response rate¹⁴ was 7.3%. The table below presents information about the final call dispositions for this survey.

Total Numbers Attempted	11,533
Out-of-scope - Invalid	219
Unresolved (U)	6,729
No answer/Answering machine	6,729
In-scope - Non-responding (IS)	3,760
Language barrier	45
Incapable of completing (ill/deceased)	210
Callback (respondent not available)	425
Refusal	2,864
Termination	217
In-scope - Responding units (R)	825
Completed Interview	750
Indicated that they did use My VAC Account in past 2 years*	75

criterion removed mid-data collection*

- In terms of the analysis:
 - The survey data were not weighted because there was no reliable information available about the characteristics of the population against which to weight the survey results.
 - Non-response bias is the bias that results when survey respondents differ in meaningful ways from non-respondents. The sample frame contained no information that could be used to assess the potential for bias from survey non-response. That said, by design, the survey sample contains more non-users than inactive users and therefore can be expected to overrepresent the views of non-users.

¹⁴ The response rate formula is as follows: $[R=R/(U+IS+R)]$. This means that the response rate is calculated as the number of responding units [R] divided by the number of unresolved [U] numbers plus in-scope [IS] non-responding households and individuals plus responding units [R].
