Some Princeton Festival Artists' CDs

The following selection is by no means exhaustive. We asked performers to send us their CDs (or cover images), and this compilation reflects what we received, already had in our own collection, or could find on the Internet. We regret some obvious omissions. Check the artists' websites for information on how you can buy particular items.

Phil Thomas, the artist who made the first two CDs below, regrettably died before the Princeton Festival came into existence, but if there is a guiding spirit behind its aim of preserving and reinvigorating the vernacular music of British Columbia, that spirit is Phil Thomas's. Phil was the pioneer and the most conscientious of B.C. folksong collectors, and his vernacular song collection is a treasure that we will be exploring and drawing upon for many decades. This issue of Canadian Folk Music is dedicated to him.
