

fragment

you're a hundred-foot
fragrant green cloudsweeper on a mountain top when one day you're ripped
from the grip of God

and a turn
 of the wheel
 takes you down
 to a mill
 reincarnated

you're a hundred-centimeter dead yellow stick
in the grip of a man
sweeping the sawdust
of your relatives

Richard Arnold