

Nadia BOULANGER (1887-1979) was a French composer, conductor and teacher. She taught in Paris, Massachusetts and New York and was the first woman to conduct a symphony orchestra in London.

Click on the "◀◀" button above to return to the text.