

The ZULU WAR, 1879, was fought between the British army (of which Canadian soldiers were considered a part) and King Cetshwayo of the Zulus for control of Zululand in present-day South Africa. Although known as great fighters, the Zulus were eventually defeated and their lands came under British control and were annexed to Natal in 1897.

Click on the "◀◀" button above to return to the text.