

Archangelo CORELLI (1653-1713) was an Italian composer and violinist whose works profoundly influenced string writing and performance. His few surviving works include church and secular sonatas and concerti.

Click on the "◀◀" button above to return to the text.