

Luigi CHERUBINI (1760-1842) was an Italian composer who helped found the Conservatoire national in Paris in 1793. It is believed that he taught Canadian composer Antoine Dessane. He wrote over forty operas, vocal music, six quartets, a symphony and other instrumental music.

Click on the "◀◀" button above to return to the text.